Syracuse, Sept. 1. 1852.

Dear Garrison.

I have already informed you of our intention to celebrate the Rescue of Jerry on the 1st of October. Metheatic Hall capable of holding 2000 will then be ready for us. Our musical men and women will lend us their aid. We have written to our poetical fellow laborers to prepare something for us to sing. And now we wish to be sure that there shall be no failure in speakers who will utter the words that should go forth to the nation.

I have just written to Wendell Phillips begging him to come and help us. I now write to you to make the same request, and I shall write likewise to Parker.

If we may announce through the newspapers that you three or two, or either of you will be here, it will bring to us a throng from the country round about. — Yours Truly

Saml. J. May

I wish we might see you also at the Woman's Right's Convention next week —
